Headline:

Cold and sunny spells, with rain to come.

Today:

A cold start with some frosts. A dry day for most, and some sunny spells in the north of the region as low cloud slowly retreats southwards. Light winds and feeling chilly. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:

The lingering low cloud over the south and west of the region advances northeast through the evening, with heavy downpours of rain, possibly snow, to follow overnight. Winds strengthening. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tuesday:

Heavy rain clears by lunchtime, leaving behind brighter spells and heavy, localised showers. Winds increasing. Mild for most, but risks of snow and icy stretches in the cooler north. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:

Remaining unsettled. Mild, with sunny spells and possible rain on Wednesday. Calmer on Thursday, with sunny spells and showers. Further showers and cooler Friday.
